GOOD DEEDS: if you are doing them we want to hear about it!!

- I put a nice note on kids lockers in the month of November
- A student held a door for another student who was holding too much.
- A friend brought my stuff to class when I had to use the restroom.
- Friends helping each other with work.
- I saw someone complimenting a teacher and student.
- Helping someone with their locker.
- Today I saw someone hold the door for every person going into the lunchroom. There were a lot of people, but the boy still held the door for everyone. It was a simple act of kindness that made people's days better.

ADVICE: (what advice can you share to make someone's day easier)

- Don't be afraid to show the world the real you - Marilyn Matos
- When someone trusts you with something like a secret, don't go around telling people because having someone's trust is something that you should value. -Ally Callejas
- When you fail at something don't give up, try and if you don't succeed then try and try again. - OWEN CROWELL
- Advice for a teacher is not to put a lot of pressure on students because the less pressure that is on them, the more confident they will feel to do whatever it is they are doing. -Tallon Zabriskie

National Gratitude Month

Family mealtimes are a great time to connect with your kids and show gratitude. Thanksgiving dinner is typically a time when families and friends gather to give thanks over a meal. But gratitude doesn't have to be for one day only! Help your children practice gratitude all month long with these tips:

1. Implement a distraction-free meal: no TV, iPad, or phones. This will help the family to stay connected and focused on each other.
2. ABC's of gratitude: this is great for young ones practicing their alphabet. Go around the table and say one thing you are grateful for. The catch? It has to be in ABC order!
3. Ask probing questions like "What is something that made you feel happy today?" or "What was your favorite part about school today?"

Tips For a Healthy Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving for many Americans is usually about family, food, and football! But you don't have to leave the dinner table feeling full and sluggish. Here are some tips to create healthier Thanksgiving habits!

1. Start the day with a healthy and filling breakfast.
2. Carve out time for physical activity. Whether it's a Turkey Trot, throwing a football, or taking a walk after dinner, there are plenty of choices to get moving!
3. Most importantly, enjoy yourself! Thanksgiving should be about connecting with loved ones and spending quality time with one another. Don't let all the focus be on the food.
